DCE Electrics

We are hiring apprentice electricians in Port Macquarie, from first to fourth year. A job where every week brings something new.

We are DCE Electrical Contractors. From the outside we look like an electrical contractor, but we do a lot more than lights and power. As an apprentice, you could be learning on:
• Lifts, travelators and automatic doors
• Generators and standby power
• Workshop machinery in schools
• Commercial food processing machinery
• Large factories and industrial sites
• New commercial and industrial builds

We work to the standard that big corporate customers expect, but we have never lost our family culture. People here know they are cared about, we look out for each other, and there is always someone willing to teach you something new.

What you get:
• A busy, supportive team that wants to help you learn and grow
• Earn while you learn a trade you can build a career on
• Experience well beyond a standard apprenticeship, with work in schools, hospitals, shopping centres, factories and aged care
• Real breadth: you will learn lifts, generators and heavy machinery as well as the electrical work you would expect
• Other trades under one roof, with a fitter machinist, a motor mechanic and our own mechanical and machinery workshop
• Opportunities to specialise in many different electrical fields

Mature age apprentices are very welcome, because it is never too late to start a trade. People of all backgrounds are encouraged to apply, including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, women and people from culturally diverse backgrounds.

Whether you are about to start your first year or you are already part way through your apprenticeship, we would love to hear from you.
